2008 Marks Turning Point for SAP Change Management

Banner year for Revelation Software Concepts mirrors evolution by SAP-based IT systems toward larger, more complex business infrastructures

Melbourne, Australia – December 17, 2008 - Revelation Software Concepts Pty Ltd (RSC), an SAP® software solution partner, today reported that the company has seen wider adoption in 2008 of SAP-based system change control solutions than at any time in its ten-plus years as the SAP-system change control pioneers. The company attributed this growth spurt to the evolution of SAP infrastructures toward greater size and higher complexity, plus increased requirements for efficient, error-free system maintenance, especially during upgrades and project implementations. The trend toward use of multiple technology SAP applications and increased need for compliant, auditable processes also played a part.

RSC develops Rev-Trac, the market-leading SAP system change management solution. In 2008, RSC redesigned its Rev-Trac add-on suite to make add-on components easier to select and implement as needed, serving a broader range of organizations. The company also implemented key enhancements to enable full integration with the enhanced SAP CTS+ technology, with added management of non-ABAP changes made to software based on non-native SAP technologies.

“Our Rev-Trac enhancements helped us welcome many of the world’s largest companies as new customers this year,” said Rick Porter, vice president of business development. “These include extremely high name-recognition customers within retail, fast-turnover consumer product, steel production, energy, aerospace, government agencies and publishing. Organizations in highly regulated industries such as pharmaceutical and financial services companies also have recognized the need for tighter change management.”

Porter added, “As we evolved Rev-Trac to meet these new market needs, our marketing and support partners in every major inhabited global region played a large part in helping organizations understand the benefits of better change management. Our system of marketing through qualified partners continues to work well for us and for the industries we serve.”
